TWO CENTS

SETS UP, PLEA OF SELF DEFENSE IN MURDER TRIAL

Donora Italian on Trial For Killing Alleged Rival In Monongahela

DOES NOT DENY THE SHOOTING

Guy Piccolo, of Donora, was placed on trial before Judge J. A. McIlvaine in criminal court at Washington on Thursday, charged with killing Joseph Crisafio, alias Jos. Crisafio, in a fight over a pretty Italian girl. The commonwealth is asking for a verdict of second degree murder.

Crisafio was shot to death in the home of Joe Malise, in Park avenue, Monongahela, about 9:30 o'clock on the night of April 29, 1920. It is claimed the killing was the result of a quarrel over a girl. According to evidence secured by the commonwealth, Piccolo and Crisafio were suitors for the hand of a pretty Italian girl in Donora. The two men met at the home of Joe Malise on the evening of April 29. It is claimed by the commonwealth that there was trouble between the two men over this girl and that Piccolo shot Crisafio through the heart.

The defendant does not deny the shooting, but he claims that Crisafio shot first, wounding the defendant in the left leg. Piccolo avers that he grappled with Crisafio, took the revolver away from him and then fired. The commonwealth introduced a statement, said to have been made by Piccolo after his arrest, which was read to the jury. The defense, which opened shortly before adjournment of court, is self defense. It is claimed that the deceased was a dangerous character and had injured Piccolo once before, shooting him in the foot. While Piccolo will not deny the killing, but will claim that he shot only after being attacked by Crisafio.

The shooting caused a great deal of excitement at the time, and Piccolo was arrested shortly after it had occurred, being taken by Monongahela officers at his boarding house in Donora, to where he had gone after the fight with Crisafio. It was alleged at the time that Piccolo had shot himself through the leg in order to back up his claim of being shot by Crisafio.

TREATY "ROTTEN" TEACHERS ARE TOLD

At the afternoon session of the Allegheny County Teachers' Institute held yesterday in Memorial Hall, Pittsburgh, Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons, for some years a professor at Roberts College, Constantinople, and recently a lecturer, author and war correspondent, said that the people in the Near East do not understand the American people, and that the Americans do not understand them; that the Eastern standards of living, religion and government were so different from ours that it would be "impossible to gather the people under any such organization as the league of nations." Dr. Gibbons spoke of the treaty of Versailles as a "rotten" document.

"The situation in the Near East," said Dr. Gibbons, "is worse today than it was when the armistice was signed." He attributed this to the fact that "while neither France nor England is engaged in an open war, they are continually fighting one another. Great Britain against France and France against Great Britain." Through smaller governments and for their own gains; not to give freedom and independence to these smaller governments, which they had promised.

Frederick Houghton, who had been employed for a number of years as a glass cutter at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass works, died in the Memorial hospital, Monongahela, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, aged 68 years. The funeral was held this afternoon, with interment in Charleroi cemetery.

A surprise party was held in honor of Joseph Panwels at the home of Miss Marie Stopp, 214 Second street, at which thirty guests were present. The evening was delightfully spent in games and music, after which luncheon was served, the hostess being assisted by the Misses Mina Portz and Ethel Garbutt.

Another Ban Placed On Open Top Cars For Wagon Mines

The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered on Thursday that wagon load mines be not provided with open top cars unless such mines are equipped with either an elevator or a trolley from which to load cars. The Commission said that the order resulted from unusual delay and wasteful use of equipment which "aggravated the existing shortage of equipment and congestion of traffic, when such wagon mines are not in position to load cars upon private tracks." The order became effective at once, and remains in operation until next April 1st.

This order will likely put a stop to the delivery of open top cars to all wagon mines, in this vicinity as well as elsewhere, and practically put quite a number of such loaders out of business, unless they are able to dispense of their cars by other means. It is known that one of the results of the order issued by the Public Service Commission, which the wagon loaders promise to contest, was to divert coal formerly designed for loading in open top cars on railroad sidings to operators who have tipples and other devices for loading.

As the Interstate Commerce Commission has national jurisdiction it is not likely that the railroads will attempt to make any delivery of open top cars in opposition to the ruling made on Thursday.

This order affects about 3000 wagon mines throughout the country.

CHILD KILLED IN A PECULIAR MANNER

A very peculiar accident, which had a fatal ending, occurred in Monessen on Wednesday evening. The victim was John Paulina, aged two years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Paulina, of 288 Rostraver street. The child was at the home of some neighbors, where he was playing with a number of children. They had improvised a swing out of a rug, attaching one end to a door knob and the other end to the ice box. It was decided by the children that the Paulina child should have the first swing, and he was placed in the rug for that purpose. As soon as the swing started his weight proved to be too much, and the ice box was tipped over, pinning the boy underneath and crushing his skull. His death was instantaneous, the physician who was called having found that life was extinct before he reached him. Funeral services were held on Thursday, and the interment this morning.

WANT GOOD WEATHER FOR MOOSE PICNIC

Only fair weather is needed to make the picnic of the Loyal Order of Moose at Eldora park on Saturday a great success. The committee have all arrangements made for the event, and now only await the day to carry them out. A corn roast at the noon hour will supplement the picnic dinner, and at two o'clock the athletic program will begin. There will be a number of races for men and women with suitable prizes, and at 4 o'clock a prize drill will take place for a large American flag.

At 4:45 a boxing program of five events will be staged, bringing together Steve Carter and Willard Latham in the Main bout, Eddie Borland and Young Sullivan in the semi-finals, and Young Humphries and Whitey Morris, Art Leclair and Young Jeter, and Johnny Morgan and Leo Roman. During the athletic program the dancing pavilion will be open and those who wish to trip the light fantastic can enjoy themselves with Jenkins orchestra furnishing the music.

HORMELL CLAN HOLDS REUNION

The seventh annual reunion of the Hormell Clan was held at Oakland Park on Thursday, and the event proved to be a very delightful occasion. About one hundred members of the Clan were present, and after a family dinner, at which all the good things of the season were provided, a business meeting was held. Guy Moffitt, Esq., served as temporary chairman, and the following officers were elected: John T. Hormell, of Charleroi, President; Walter C. Hormell, of Brownsville, vice president; and Mrs. R. Sherman Walk, of Wilkensburg, secretary-treasurer. During the afternoon addresses were delivered by Rev. Lake and Rev. Greenlee, both of Charleroi. Those in attendance were practically all from this immediate vicinity.

TO GO THE WORK IN TWO DAYS

The assessors of Charleroi, on Thursday, received from the county commissioners the registry books to be used for registering and assessing such women as may be entitled to be registered and assessed in the various districts of the borough, and who may have been themselves at the polling places on August 31st and September 1st. The registers are instructed to enter in these registry books the names of all females over the age of 21 who desire to be registered, arranging the names therein alphabetically, as in the case of male voters, thus grouping them under the proper initial letters, as "A" "B" and "C". They are also directed to fill in each column with the proper information which will be supplied by the applicant. They will register each woman under her own first name, thus, "Mrs. Anna Smith," not Mrs. John Smith.

They are also directed to assess each woman with an occupation valuation of $100 at the time she is registered. This will permit her to pay taxes, the amount of which this year will be 75 cents.

In all respects the women are to be registered and assessed as they did the male voters at the time of making the fall registration in the month of May, 1920. The registry book must be returned to the commission's original registry book now in their possession, on September 2, 1920.

Registrars are requested to be at the polling places throughout the entire day on August 31 and September 1, and this will likely be done. The commissioners have fixed the compensation of the registrars at $5 per day from this time on.

It is possible the County Treasurer will deputize the registrars to receive the tax, to wit, 75 cents, due from each woman. If this is done it will be a matter of accommodation, as there will be no compensation additional to the registrars for this work.

Playing cards were brought to Europe from the East about the time of the Crusade, about 1100, very likely by the home-returning warriors. The gipsies, who at that time began to wander over Europe, are said to have introduced them, using them as they do now for telling fortunes. The first packs contained 78 cards, including four suits of numbered cards and 24 emblematic "trump" cards, which served as trumps. The numbered cards were marked with swords, cups, clubs and hearts. Each of these suits consisted of 14 cards, four of which were blank, queen, knight and knave. The emblematic cards had such pictures on them as a king, a cardinal, a peasant, a monk, a pope, a pope, a pope, and the moon.

Neuchâtel, in his "Brief History of Epidemic and Pestilential Diseases," published in 1780, described 44 instances of influenza, dating in Europe from 1174 and in America from 1647. All of them are associated with earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, comets, droughts and similar disturbances of like nature. The epidemic of 1780 was described by Benjamin Rush. Doctor Rush's account reveals a remarkable parallelism between the epidemic of 1789-90 and that of 1918-19. It includes a classic description of sneezing, hoarseness and sore throat; the sense of weariness, chills and fever, pains in the head and infection in the frontal sinus.

After the guests at their party had gone, Mrs. Mimble said to her husband: "What on earth did you mean, John, by telling the Smiths that my humor was positive, but not negative?" "I meant," said Mr. Mimble, "that you could make a joke, but couldn't take one!"

Water Affects Teeth.

Scientific investigation discloses the fact that where "hard" water is used for drinking, good teeth are the general result. "Hard" water contains a large amount of lime which enters largely into the composition of teeth.

How is the Solid Truck Tire Buyer Goin to Get What He Wants

ANY man who does his hauling on trucks equipped with solid tires knows what abuse does to them.

Faced as he is with the continual necessity for economy operation, he has to find tires that will stand up under severe duty without severe expense.

We might have picked out another solid truck tire instead of the U. S.—but what we were looking for was a tire built for road and hauling conditions as they actually exist.

With United States Solids, built of grainless rubber—non-splitting—with rubber and base band chemically joined—ending base separation—goes our personal service that reckons the truck owner's time as money and proper advice as something he is entitled to at all times.

In purchasing a new truck consult us about the type of tires to specify.

HAD GENIUS FOR INVENTION

Man Who Began Life as a Prairie Sheep Herder Made Most Remarkable Record.

It is probable that Walter Turner was the world's most prolific inventor. Starting life as a shepherd on a prairie sheep ranch in the far West he knew nothing of the mechanics of railway engineering. One day, however, while tending his sheep on the prairie in the neighborhood of a railway, Turner came to where the ruins of a train were scattered, and among the fragments he picked up as a curiosity a vital part of the Westinghouse brake. This he was allowed to carry away. During his lonely life on the prairie he would ponder over the mechanism of this brake. His chance came when, having failed as a sheep farmer, he got a job as a wheel tapper on the railway, ultimately being promoted to the engine shops. A series of inventions, improving brakes patented by the company, led to his further advancement. Mr. Westinghouse, who took him into his works, finally made him the head of the engineering department. Westinghouse patented two hundred inventions, but the shepherd from the prairies patented four hundred. Westinghouse made an air-brake that would control fifty railway carriages; Turner improved it till it would control a hundred. When he died it was said that the value of the shepherd's inventions to the world was over thirty-five million dollars in gold.

NEXT JOB IS WHAT COUNTS

Good Thing to Forget What One Has Done, and Look Forward to Something Else.

James J. Hill, who possessed a phenomenal memory, said it is easy to remember things you are interested in.

What to do, therefore, is to discern what things are useful, what things one ought to be interested in, and then forget the others.

That sounds easy, but it isn't easy, as we all know. However, if we try, we may accomplish something. If we don't, we won't.

Let's see, therefore, what are some of the things we ought to forget.

First, and most important of all, forget that brilliant record you made at school or that wonderful sale you made which caused all the boys to talk, or that remarkable piece of work you did which won your raise of pay and promotion.

Forget the big things you did yesterday or last year.

Forget all about the time you topped the list and were made a fuss over.

Forget that you are (in your own eyes) a wonder, a world beater.

Water that has gone over the mill-wheel can grind no more corn.

Forget what you have already done and address all your mind and strength and talent to the next job.—Forbes Magazine (New York).

When Thunder Roars.

When caught in a thunderstorm, don't rush for any shelter.

Remember that any tall, isolated object, such as a tree or a flagstaff, or even a tall building, is liable to attract lightning, and for that reason should be avoided.

If trees are chosen as shelters during a storm, select a group in preference to one standing by itself, and avoid the highest.

Never run to escape the rain, as a flash is likely to be diverted to the vicinity of the air thus set in rapid motion.

In a house, keep away from open windows—it is best to shut them—and fireplaces.

It is safer to be soaked by the rain than dry under an umbrella; wet clothes will be chosen by the lightning in preference to the wearer, and the wearer in preference to his dry clothes.

There are certain bird notes which strike strange chords, whose vibrations are lost in a mist of dreams. I remember a little runaway boy who stood in a clover field in a gray twilight and heard the clanging calls of wild geese shouting down from midsky. Frightened, he ran home a vast distance—at least the width of two fields. As he ran there seemed to come back to him the memory of a forgotten dream, if it were a dream, in which he lay in another land on a chill hillside. Overhead in the darkness passed a burst of triumphant music and the strong singing of voices not of this earth. From that day the trumpet notes of the wild geese bring back through the fog of the drifting years that same dream to him who heard them first in that far away, long ago clover field.

Wonderful Balances.

It was the Italian physician, Salvioni who devised a microbalance of such extreme delicacy that it clearly demonstrates the loss of weight of music by volatilization. Thus the invisible perfume floating off in the air is indirectly weighed. The essential part of the apparatus is a very thin thread of glass fixed at one end and extended horizontally. The microscopic objects to be weighed are placed on the glass thread near its free end and the amount of flexure produced is observed with the microscope magnifying 100 diameters. A note weighing one one-thousandth of a milligram perceptibly bends the thread.

Scientists Believe That Race Erected the Immense Monoliths Found in Various Places.

Giant monoliths standing strangely alone in many places on the globe when discovered by intrepid explorers and adventurers during the recent centuries, are being referred to as the greatest mysteries of human history by archeologists, who are now trying to determine what race built them. They are scattered in far-off places. They are monstrous pieces of rude sculpture. They are built of terrifying stone blocks, some weighing as much as 250 tons.

In many districts where the great memorials stand there are no stones of such size to be found, and consequently they must have been transported from places far away. The most famous of them are the cromlechs in England. Others are found in western France, northern Germany, in Denmark, Africa, Madagascar, Asia, from Mt. Sinai and the Caucasus to India; and among the most wonderful and mysterious of all are those found on lonely Easter Island in the Pacific ocean. M. Levisse, a French archeologist, believes they were erected by the Phoenicians, as most of them have been found near rivers. Some students are inclined to believe the Phoenicians reached America by the lost Atlantis, a legendary continent that now is sunken somewhere in the Atlantic. A footprint, the Phoenician mark of death, has been found carved in many, while a coiled snake, another mark of these navigators also is found.

"GHEE" MUCH USED IN EAST

Concentrated Form of Butter Fat Employed in Preparation of Almost All Dishes.

Ghee is briefly described as clarified butter. Cow's or buffalo's milk is submitted to a process of churning and boiling which yields a concentrated form of butter fat considered to be entirely free from curd, whey or water. This product keeps better than ordinary butter, but has a taste not usually appreciated by Europeans. Although commonly associated with the diet of the British Indian, ghee is used as well throughout the Red sea district by the Arabs, Somalis, British Indians, and other native elements of the population. In a minor way ghee is used medicinally and ceremonially; but its principal use is in the preparation of food, and no native meal in this part of the world is truly relished unless ghee is generously used in some form or other. It is worked into the dough for native bread, and the bread is fried in ghee; or if ordinary bread is used the pieces broken off to be eaten are first dipped into a cup or vessel of hot ghee. It is used in the preparation of all meat dishes, and of many vegetable dishes. Some natives, particularly the Arabs, boil it with milk and drink the mixture.

The Beard in History.

The beard, considered a sign of manhood, was stroked for the first time in Paradise by Adam, if tradition is to be believed, and has had a strange part in the world's history of vanity and fashion ever since. History says the kings of Persia plaited their beards with golden thread, and that the winged bulls of Assyria also had beards. Saladin's son, Turkish historians say, wept for fear when he saw the shaven envoys of the Crusaders.

Razors made of flint and oyster shell were used in prehistoric times when man gave way to the first demands of vanity. The greatest benefactor of barbers in the world's history was Alexander the Great, who shaved himself to preserve his youth, and had his army shaved to prevent the enemy seizing their beards. He set a fashion that was followed by the Greeks, the philosophers by profession alone being excepted. This custom adopted by him has come down through the centuries.

To see the pearl fisher at work there is no need to go to the South seas. In the first fine days of June he may be found by burn or loch in a dozen parts of Scotland, says a correspondent. He is usually of the tinker class, and his outfit is of the simplest—a water telescope made of wood and a bit of common glass, and a cleft stick to pull up the mussels, in any one of which he may find a small fortune. These mussel-pearls from the Ythan and Teith and other Scottish streams fetch good prices: one was sold not long ago for fully $250. Pearls are found in Canada mussels also, some of them of considerable value. But in Canada there is little or no private ownership of waters, so that our pearl fishers run no risk, as do the Scots, of being arrested for poaching.—Montreal Herald.

Ostrich Telephoning.

When the eggs on the ostrich farms in California are on the point of hatching, a curious tapping of the shell may be heard. This the keepers call "telephoning." The sound is caused by the chicks inside the eggs endeavoring to break out. Those which cannot easily emerge are assisted by the mother bird, which will sometimes break an egg from which the telephoning is heard by pecking it carefully, and will then aid the chick to get out.

At the Pasadena farm the sight of a boy riding an ostrich as he would a pony may sometimes be seen.

HARBINGERS of the Autumn

Fur Lavishly Applied Enriches the Effectiveness of Advance Suit Modes

In several models this mode of trimming is combined with embroidery of dull gold. Sometimes embroidery is the only adornment the suit boasts. And in still other designs, trimming, other than unique collars, cuffs, pockets and belts of shoe string width that encircle the waist two and three times, is omitted. Duvel de laine, tricotine, and velour are some of the fabrics shown. For color these New Suits cling tenaciously to the various shades of brown.

Frocks Forecasting the Modes of Autumn

Judging from the early Autumn frock interpretations which we have assembled after considerable effort, the new season will see long sleeves return to favor. This, we are sure, will be true in woolen frocks, and those which are designed for street wear. Afternoon Dresses, many of them are of satin—have elbow sleeves. Tricotine is again a popular fabric and navy blue and brown vie for favor.

INFLEXIBLE STANDARDS OF SERVICE

Most women gauge a store's value to them by the service it offers not only during those periods when their needs are of greater magnitude but also at the times when their wants may be few and far between. They like to patronize a store where they are assured of the same prompt attention and courtesy whether they purchase an entire wardrobe or only a collar or perhaps a handkerchief. Those who visit our store for the first time will find an atmosphere and courteous intelligent service that has won the patronage of a growing circle of friends.

EVEN THE SMALLEST CHOKER ENDOWS ITS WEARER WITH CHARM

"It's a perfectly stunning costume, but she needs a bit of Fur at the throat to give it the proper finishing touch." How many times haven't you seen the wisdom of that critical assertion proved beyond a doubt? And nobody knows better than our Fur Buyer how much a well chosen Choker improves a frock or a suit so he has gathered together a really notable collection of them. You may choose any one of them at a very special price during our August Fur Sales.

The Beauty of Sweaters Grows With Their Popularity

Colors that bid fair to rival those of the well press-agented rainbow add zest to the choosing of one's sweater.

No longer need one accept any but her favorite color just to secure a coveted style for Tuxedos, slippers and other smart styles all offer a pleasing color range. Fancy stripe, block and diagonal weaves are other reasons why selling in this display is always spirited.

School is Looked Forward to When it Means the Wearing of Such Apparel as This Exuberant youth needs Clothes that reflect its high spirits; Clothes that are simple, in good taste yet very modestly priced withal. Such attire may be very easily and—and we might with truth say—speedily here. From the subdew who will soon depart for boarding school to the slightly older Miss who gravely contemplates return to college, the younger Set will find fulfilment of all Wardrobe requirements in our displays.

And because we know that you are eager to learn "what's what" as regards Fall Hat fashions, we extend to you a cordial invitation to come and see them at your first opportunity. Described below are a few of the modes which await your approval. Draped turbans and other little soft hats, of velvet, metal cloth, and velvet combined with Duvelyn, come in two and four color combinations, such as brown with blue and tan and black, brown with rose, brown with blue, brown with scarlet, also in solid colors. $5.95 to $11.50. Beautiful pattern hats with drooping brims, beaded and embroidered in gold tinsel and silk. Hats trimmed in Autumn leaves with veils to match in all leading shades. Smart turbans of Duvelyn trimmed in genuine beaver fur with bag and scarf to match. $12.50 to $67.50.

The New Autumn Blouses

One of Fashion's Blouse edicts for Autumn is that sheer fabrics must give way to opaque materials. To prove that our presentations are always in keeping with her dictations we offer a variety of charming new Blouses in crepe de chine, taffeta and satin. Their styles, though varied, indicate authentically the trend of Blouse modes. Come and see them.

The Skirts For Autumn Promise Departures From the Usual

A good thing to remember when one's thoughts are centered on the selection of a separate Skirt for Autumn is that great vogue is predicted for the modes that combine various woolen fabrics. Even as clearly as this we are showing for the approval of our patrons a number of Autumn Skirts which carry out this theme wisely and well.

WAR SHORN OF ITS GLAMOR

Modern Painters, Who Themselves Have Looked on Death, Depict Slaughter as It Really Is.

For the first time in history war is painted as it is. The varnish, the glory has been taken off. It stands out in all its sodden horror. The opening of the Salon des Artistes Français, filled for the most part with canvases of men who have been in the trenches, show an astonishing absence of battle scenes.

Most of the painters have sought inspiration elsewhere. Those who have found it in the war have rendered only the dull misery of life at the front.

They show no clash of armies, these painters who have been through the war, no flourish of trumpets, not even fragments of general fights. But war as it is. A soldier, limping toward the lines, exhausted, despairing, holding up to his mouth a handkerchief, dark as a clot of blood is what one sees. The face is distorted with suffering, and the uniform is of that indescribable color which comes only from continual exposure to the elements. Garry paints a blinded soldier guided towards a water supply. Michel and Pouzanges show water-logged trenches.

If governments in the future wish more pleasant and cheerful war scenes they will have to call on artists who stayed away from the front. Those who served were too close to death to paint anything but the truth.

JUST REPETITION OF HISTORY

Fads of the Present Day Had Their Counterpart in the Fashions of Years Ago.

Nothing is new under the sun, not even the newest and most up-to-date girl scribe of the present day, with bobbed hair, nor even the employee, who complains of the fashion. A writer in "Blackwood" has discovered that in the time of James I. this fashion was affected by women who donned the doublet and hose, which aroused the ire of an unknown author, who in 1620 lampooned the women of the day for so dressing, and instead of keeping to "the modest attire of the comely hood, cow or coil and handsome dress and kirtlets" betook themselves to the "cloudy, ruffianly, broad-brimmed hat and wanton feathers." Nor was this all. The extravagance of her costume, with the "French doublet" which took the place of a "corsetted straight gown" was not in the author's eye the deadliest offense; incredible though it seems, she would "out and cut her hair to the despicable fashion of the Puritan." So the bobbed hair comes as a reminiscence of the modern maiden's forebears in the Covenanters' time.

Selling Shoes Under Difficulties.
Dean B. Stover, southern salesman for a Brockton shoe concern, got an order under difficulties while out on his last trip. He made a North Carolina town and hired a taxi to take him to a township 15 miles away to which few trains ran. Arriving on the outskirts of his destination he found that the heavy floods had washed away the only bridge. Mr. Stover decided the only thing to do was to turn back until the taxi driver suggested that there might be a boat somewhere around. Mr. Stover hunted along the banks until he found a fat bottomed skiff and he rowed across. He interviewed his customer, paddled him back to the other shore, requisitioned a small wharf and laid his samples out on the roadside. And he made the sale.—Brockton Enterprise.

All Blush Now.
Playwright Eugene Walter apropos of a New York publisher's conviction for publishing a supposedly obscene novel said:
"The novel in question is harmless, and the people who brought about that poor publisher's conviction were as silly as—as well as it reminds me of a story."
"The lady principal of a famous girls' school took her older pupils to the Metropolitan museum one day. Entering the hall of sculptures, the principal said, as she looked up from her catalogue:
"Attention, young ladies! When we come to the next statue but one you will all blush."

Exercise Intelligently.
"Grow younger as you grow older by cultivating a love of good, healthful, honest sport," is sound advice. Walking, riding, rowing, playing golf, tennis or croquet or any other mild form of exercise in the open air keeps the muscles supple and prevents the joints from stiffening, fills the lungs with life-giving oxygen and keeps the blood from becoming sluggish or the liver torpid. In short, it is exercise and right thinking that keep the body "in tune and up to concert pitch."—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago Daily News.

Put Romance Before Truth.
Inaccuracies in history and anecdotes with no foundation of fact may be blamed on some of the older historians. The men who first wrote of Colonial and Revolutionary times often tried to make their accounts romantic and picturesque by revising history to suit themselves, because they did not see that the real facts were more romantic than their embellishments could make them. Our histories, paintings, poetry and traditions are still influenced by their work.

NO LANGUAGE QUITE PURE

Words Expressing New Ideas and New Things Are Passed From Nation to Nation.

If by "a pure language" is meant one that does not contain words adopted from another language, then there are none among civilized nations. A language is not something made to order, and that once made ends there so far as development is concerned. A language grows in many ways. Take modern English for example. It differs considerably from the English of the time of Queen Elizabeth, and it is so different from the language spoken in England at the time of the Norman conquest that could one of those old Saxons come back he would not understand us and we would not understand him. And yet the language he spoke is the basis of modern English. Since the time of the Saxons there has been great growth. The Normans brought in French, and scholars since then have brought in thousands of words derived from Latin and Greek. These are English words today, but the roots from which they sprang are to be found in other and in many cases in other languages. It is because of this that the English vocabulary is so extensive and the language so expressive.

Italian, Spanish and French are largely derived from Latin, which was the language of ancient Rome, and for centuries Rome was the ruler of continental Europe. And the Latins borrowed from the still older Greek.

A living language is always growing. For example, science is introducing new words to express new ideas and to name new things.

TRACING HISTORY OF BED

Many Varieties Have Been Used, Not All of Them Conducive to Healthful Sleep.

Iron beds were first made for ordinary use a couple of hundred years ago, and gradually people saw the advantages of this metal bed, until nowadays they are almost universally in use. The Romans used rough frame-work beds, interlaced with thorns, although, of course, the idea was much improved upon in the beds of some of the emperors, ornamented with furs etc. After the thorn and frame-work bed came the first idea of a mattress. In the shape of the "best bed." This was a kind of shallow box, stuffed with dry moss or feathers, and although it never has been comfortable, it lasted, at the same time, for an extremely long time. Later on, came the big four-poster bed, with "bedsteads." These were of the "wing" furniture, with long, ornate, carved legs and little wheels at the bottom, and they were used at all times, in those days. A bedstead was no effective support. So when the bed of a rich man was moved, he moved the whole of his furniture, and let the vendors of his furniture. The poor man, with only one bedstead, merely moved it and laid it on, rather than

ERROR COST LAWYER CLIENT

Addressed as "Three-Fourths" Smith, Man Proved to Be All There in His Anger.

One gathers from Judge Shure's book, "The Real Diary of the Worst Farmer," that a lawyer turned farmer has some difficulties in giving the necessary attention to his legal work. For instance:

"I was much grieved to lose a client in a most curious way. I have recently installed a new typewriting machine in my office. The presiding goddess of the machine had written a letter from dictation to a Mr. J. Smith, a gentleman who in early life had suffered the loss of one leg at the hip, and who is, not unreasonably, very sensitive about his misfortune. The young lady was unused to the new machine and struck the figure 3, instead of the initial J, both in the address in the letter and on the envelope."

"I had been absorbed in working on a decision in the peas question, and when the letter was brought to me for signature, did not notice the error and the letter was sent bearing my signature, directed—
Mr. J. Smith,
N. H.

"Today I received a letter from the maddest man in the United States, and containing 'no terms' calculated to curl my hair and bring out goose pimples all over me. I concluded as well as I could, but I felt sure he would never believe I could be so cruelly ally.—New York Times Post.

"I had given up hope of ever being well again, but I can truthfully say that I feel like a new man and am so pleased that I want the world to know of it. Many of my friends have commented on my changed appearance and want to know what I have done. I always tell them I owe my return to health to Reese Formula R-11.

"I feel so good and so kindly toward the makers of Reese Formula that I have written you this letter to tell you a duty I feel I owe you."

SURE THAT ANIMALS DREAM

Eminent Authorities Have Gone on Record. Though It Has Been Subject of Dispute.

Aristotle's History of animals declares that horses, oxen, sheep, goats, dogs and all viviparous quadrupeds dream. Pili, in his natural history, specifies the same animals. Buffon describes the dreams of animals. More recently attention has been called to the fact that horses neigh and rear in their sleep, and affirm that cows and sheep, especially at the period of rearing their young, dream.

Barry, in the "Desert of Mar," says that "horses, cats, horses and probably all the higher animals, even birds, as is stated on good authority, have vivid dreams, and this is shown by their movements and voices."

George John Bonates, in his "Mental Evolution of Animals," says that the fact that dogs dream is proved by their barking and growling from Dr. Luther Lindsay, an eminent authority, that horses dream. Bonates holds that "the dream of a horse is a case where the dream took on the character of a nightmare, and the bird fell from its perch and four great authorities say that dreaming becomes so vivid as to lead to somnambulism. One gives a case of somnambulism which was which provided in search of a solitary stranger or fowl, and exhibited toward them a whole series of passionate actions, including barking. Dryden says: 'The little birds in dreams the songs repeat.'"

SHREWD IDEA IN POLITICS

Pictures of Presidential Candidates on Letter Heads Was a Popular Thing in 1840.

Back in the early days of the republic it was considered a fine idea to decorate paper with the portraits of presidential candidates. In this way the letter writer showed not only his preference, but tried to influence his correspondents for his candidate, remarks the New York Sun. A fine example of this sort of political propaganda was unearthed recently in New York. It dates back to 1840, when William Henry Harrison was running for president on the Whig ticket against Martin Van Buren, Democrat.

The letterhead shows the two sides of the gold medal awarded by congress to General Harrison for his services in the War of 1812. The picture to the left shows a medallion portrait of General Harrison, while the one at the right depicts the Goddess of Liberty, armed with a spear, placing a wreath of laurel on an Indian's head. This latter was intended as a compliment to the general for his success in fighting against the British and Indians.

Under the pictures of the two sides of the medal is a copy of the resolution of congress conferring the medals on General Harrison and Isaac Shelby, "late governor of Kentucky."

Improvised Gun Has Kick.

The Burma government forbids the natives to have guns in their possession, and prohibits trading in arrows and ammunition. But the native's ingenuity enables him to get around this. He will find a piece of gaspipe somewhere, fit a rude stock to it and a crude primer and hammer, and will use safety matches in lieu of powder. He cuts off the heads of about two boxes of matches and puts them into the improvised barrel. He then rams his shot home and is ready for business.

And let me tell you, if you never tried to shoot with such a gun, don't ever do so. Why, an express rifle is about as useless as a .22 caliber "Florent" compared with this improvised "shotgun." I tried shooting one once upon a time and the thing almost kicked my shoulder off.—National Geographic Bulletin.

Getting Rid of a Knot.

It is often a difficult business to get rid of knots, especially if these are of long standing. By following the plan indicated it is a simple matter to free the hardest knots, whether these be in straps, harness, rope, cord or anything of a similar nature. As a first step place the knot on some hard surface and give it a good hammering on all sides with a mallet or a thick piece of wood. Now boil up a little water with soap in it sufficient to make rather a cloudy solution. Then soak the knot for two or three minutes in the liquid. At the end of this time it will be found that it can be quite easily untied, often enough with the fingers. The loosening can be done with some sharp implement.

Among the most curious and interesting of natural phenomena are those pertaining to the mutual relationships of common organisms. Two plants, two animals, or a plant and an animal, may live together for their mutual benefit. Very often one of the partners gets food for the combination, while the other receives protection. This is the arrangement that subsists between tropical plants and certain species of ants which live and feed in their hollow stems, and in return drive away other insects that would do damage.

Real Success.

"Uncle George, what is success in life?" asked the small boy. "Uncle George—it's getting other folk to think as highly of you as you think of yourself.—London Blighty.

DONORA ROAD IS ABOUT COMPLETED

All of the concrete work on the improved highway between Donora and Monongahela has been finally completed, and it is expected the road will be thrown open to general traffic by the middle of September. There remains some cleaning up to do by the contractor, but this work will not require many days to accomplish.

The concreting was completed on Thursday, and it is said the road will remain closed for a period of eighteen additional days, in order to allow the cement to "set." At the expiration of that time it will be opened to the public.

This stretch of road was contracted for in the spring of 1919, and it was anticipated that the contractor would have finished it before bad weather set in last fall, but owing to delays of one kind and another he was unable to accomplish this desire end. However, "red dog" was used on the unpaved portion and the road opened for the winter, and was not closed again until last spring, when work was again resumed. Now it is practically completed, and Donora citizens especially will be highly gratified that the job has been finally completed.

HAD TO HAVE AN ARGUMENT

Old Yankee Was Sick to Death of Atmosphere of Peacefulness Which Surrounded Him.

An old Yankee was station master telegraph operator ticket agent and baggage man at a small town in Maine. A passenger bought a ticket to New York. Then he walked round to the baggage room to have his trunk checked. The whiskered ticket agent stood by him in his new chair after his resignation. "Want check it?" he said.

"Why not? That's a perfectly good ticket. You just sold it to me. The ticket points me to check baggage on it."

"Said I wouldn't check it in 'I won't check it."

"But you have to check it. I—"

"Don't talk big to me, young man. I'm less here. Said I wouldn't check it and I won't."

"Then you've got 15 minutes of heated dispute. Then the distant whistle of the approaching train was heard. The old man poked down the track and then returned to the passenger. "Changed my mind," said he. "I'll check it."

"But why all this row? Why wouldn't you check it in the first place and save all this argument?"

"Young fellow," responded the railroad functionary, without even a twinkle in his eye, "I'll tell you how 'is. For a spell, nobody's been a-comin' down here like they used to. Hang 'round in 'pushtice drive-in' 'bout peace an' politics 'in sich. Been lonesome. 'Hain't had enny argumint with nobody in three months, an' 'gum! I wuz go'n' to hev one or bust!"—New York correspondent in Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Wallpapers Painted by Hand.

The revived interest of American house decorators in the old-time wall-papers has resulted in a finding of some excellent specimens, put away 100 years or more ago in some attic. Eighteen rolls of paper were recently discovered in an old New England house that tell the story of Pizarro's visit to Peru and illustrate also the habit of the old-time wallpaper makers in going far and wide in history and geography for their subjects, says the Christian Science Monitor. These old wallpapers were often painted by hand or made by the old art of hand-block printing, although nowadays they are reproduced, literally or otherwise, by printing from wooden blocks. The Pizarro paper was probably brought to America as long ago as 1735.

If it is decided to go ahead with the enterprise a splendid program of sports, with speaking and a parade will be arranged for.

PLANS WELL IN HAND FOR WASHINGTON FAIR

Officials of the Washington Fair Association are co-operating with state highway officials in placing highways leading to and from the fair grounds at Arden Downs in good shape for traffic next week. It is anticipated that if the weather is fine, the attendance at the fair during the four days of exhibition, will be the greatest in the history of the institution. The state highway department is sealing the North Main street road leading from Washington to the fair grounds in good condition, while the officials of the fair association are taking care of the entrances to the fair grounds. It is expected to have arrangements made whereby traffic will go into the fair grounds by one entrance right to the entrance of the fair and come out by another. This is done in order to prevent congestion on the bridge, which has always been a factor in other years. The Pittsburgh Railway company will carry grounds, thus not interfering in any way with automobile traffic. This arrangement is also much better for patrons. The fair will open next Tuesday and continue for a period of four days.

WOMEN NOW ENTITLED TO CITIZENSHIP RIGHTS

The final act in the adoption of the Nineteenth Amendment, conferring upon women the right to vote, was performed in Washington City on Thursday morning, when Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby promulgated the amendment. It is now a part of the Constitution of the United States, and women from this time on will have the privilege of casting a ballot at each election, just the same as the men. The promulgation of the amendment was the final act of a campaign for women suffrage that was begun 72 years ago.
